Minden doctors quell rumours about hospital

by JERRY GROZELLE
 Times staff

Doctors in Minden do have hospital privileges in Haliburton, contrary to rumours which have been circulating.

"I've heard the rumours and I don't know where they are coming from," said Dr. Jaan Roos of Minden. "They are not true; Minden doctors do have hospital privileges at Haliburton."

Dr. Roos noted that although the Minden doctors are able to send their patients to the acute care beds in Haliburton, it is not practical for them to visit those patients on a regular basis because of the time factor

Bear visits ASES

Elementary school children came within metres of an adolescent black bear that strayed into residential areas in Minden last Thursday.

The lone bear appeared to be rummaging inside a dumpster for food at the Archie Stouffer Elementary School parking lot. Grade 2 and Grade 3 students, who share a recess yard near the dumpster, spotted the bear at around 1 p.m. during a recess break.

Carnarvon businesses can apply to become LCBO agency store

Carnarvon has been designated as a potential future site of an LCBO agency stores.

"This is an excellent private-public partnership that not only makes beverage alcohol shopping more convenient for residents, but also brings additional revenue to our communities and increases the overall business base," says MPP Chris Hodgson.

The agency store program allows local retailers to sell alcohol at their existing stores. In keeping with the LCBO's commitment to social responsibility, the program favours retail businesses that are less likely to attract minors.

"Our plan to open new agency stores will improve service while maintaining the LCBO's social responsibility standards," Tim Hudak, Minister of Consumer and Business Services said. "We are committed to responsibility, providing more convenient access to beverage alcohol, giving rural consumers another reason to stay in their region to shop with local retailers."

Agency store applicants must have an existing retail business in the community and commit to operating within established LCBO guidelines. Successful applicants are required to complete the same responsible server training as all LCBO retail employees.

Children kept safe when bear comes to visit ward to see it, while the teachers were encouraging them to stay back," said the Archie Stouffer principal, Rosie Kenney. "The children were a little excited to see a bear."

As a safety precaution, the school gathered children inside by sounding the school bell about ten minutes early to signal the end of the recess.

"Later on, during the 2:30 p.m. recess, everyone stayed on the paved areas of the school and we remained observant," said Kenney, adding that she had never known a bear to wander onto school grounds before.

Two officers from the Ministry of the Natural Resources arrived about 15 minutes after the sighting but by then the bear, which they believe to be between 18 months to two years old, had apparently disappeared into the woodlands behind the school.

"We're hoping it'll realize that that wasn't a good area to be in," said Shannon Shepherd from the Ministry.

She added that the bear probably posed no significant safety threat. "It didn't show any signs of aggression."

The bear was first seen that morning in bushes alongside the Main Street footpath, near Rachel's Home Bakery. "I saw the bear just pop out of the bushes on my way to work, just before 9 a.m.," said the bakery's Andrea Anderson. "It looked like a cub so I was worried [for myself] about where its mom might be."

Shepherd said that in all likelihood the bear had just reached the age when it leaves its mother's den permanently. "We've received no other calls so far so we're hoping that it has moved on," she said.

Black bears are usually active from mid-April to early November in central Ontario. Following their birth around January, cubs stay with their mothers for about 18 months.

Shepherd said that the level of bear activity in the district at this time of year was no higher than last year.

Electrical short sets off sewage spill chain reaction

by SHERYL LOUCKS
Times staff

Minden's sewage spill on May 31 was the result of a chain reaction of mechanical and human errors, according to a report given to Minden Hills council.

On the Saturday in question, a short in one of the pumps in the Orde Street pumping station caused a 600 volt surge to kick out the pump.

The surge coursed through the system and blew an electrical panel off the wall that should have set off an alarm to alert the Ontario Clean Water Agency, which operates the station.

The alarm never went off. Sewage flows on gravity feed from houses/buildings to the station and then the pumps push it on to the sewage treatment plant. Without the pump operating properly the sewage started backing up and eventually spilled down Anson Street affecting four properties, and flooding into three basements.

One of the property owners noticed the spill and tracked down by phone Ivan Ingram, a municipal water/sewer employee. Ingram knew Gary Freeland, OCWA on-call plant operator, so tried calling him at home but could not reach him.

In retrospect, Councillor Bill Obee says Ingram should have been given instructions to call an emergency number.

Due to liability issues, the municipality does not have a key to the station. Ingram called Freeland on his mobile phone at approximately 4 p.m. and when a spare key was not located, he told Freeland he was going to take the door off its hinges to get into the station.

Freeland arrived on scene about an hour later to find Sheppards Septic Service on site pumping out the station by vacuum truck. The OCWA electrician arrived about 40 minutes later and discovered the power surge had knocked out the alarm/control panel.

Obee says the station has been fixed and rewired. Before the alarm was set off when a signal was sent to it and now the alarm will sound when there is no power/signal. Obee says in the 25-year history of the sewage system, this is the first spill he is aware of. The system passed a test for the alarms only two days before the spill.

"Sometimes when things happen it's not the best way to learn (about the system) but do you learn," says Obee.

He said the problem could have been much worse if the resident had not phoned. Obee says the damage was actually only a couple of hundred dollars per station to fix. He insists the municipality can still brag that they have a good system that is well maintained and financed.

The other issue raised at the council meeting was that neighbouring municipalities should have been notified of the spill. Council agreed to inform staff to be sure to follow that policy in the future.

Fuel starvation caused fatal plane crash

by ERIN TENNANT
Times staff

An engine fuel blockage has been identified as the cause of the plane crash at Stanhope Airport four weeks ago that killed five-year-old passenger Joshua Snelgrove and seriously injured pilot Robert Snelgrove.

The finding follows tests on the Aeronca 7AC Champ's engine at Buttonville Airport in Toronto last week.

"The engine worked fine," the investigating officer from the Transportation Safety Board of Canada, Rick Pilson, said. "The engine quit because of fuel starvation. The available fuel supply was not getting to the engine due to a blockage."

"That doesn't mean they ran out of fuel," added Pilson. "That would be called fuel exhaustion."

However, Pilson would not elaborate as to what caused the blockage in the single 65-hp engine, saying only that it was due to "technical reasons."

The two-seat airplane collided into a tree shortly after takeoff at around 5 p.m. on May 22.

Joshua, from West Guilford, was pronounced dead at the scene. His father, Robert, is still recovering from neck fractures but has been released from hospital. A funeral service was held at Lakeside Baptist Church on May 29 with 400 people in attendance.

Pilson said he delivered the engine to the Snelgrove family last Friday. There will be no further investigation into the accident, he said.

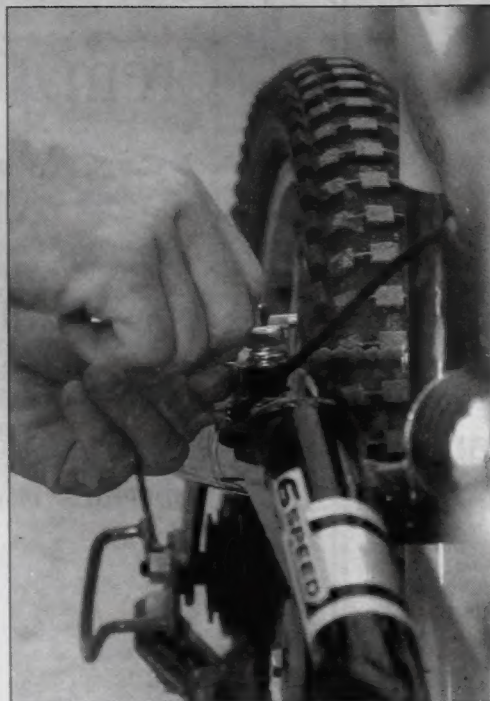

The 7AC Champ was one of Aeronca's most popular airplanes in the post-war period, with 7,190 produced between 1945 and 1951. Pilson said it was quite common to see the plane still operating.

involved in travelling to Haliburton and back. He said that it is sometimes possible to arrange for a doctor who is working in Haliburton to look in on his patients, but he acknowledges that all of Haliburton County's doctors are working at capacity.

Dr. Roos said the doctors in Haliburton have their own patients and their own responsibilities. He understands that they are unable to take the time, in most cases, to see patients sent to the Haliburton Hospital by doctors from Minden.

The ideal situation, according to Dr. Roos, would be to have acute care beds in Minden to accommodate those patients who must spend time in hospital during recovery or for observation. Minden has no acute care beds, so anyone who must spend more than a minimum of time in hospital is transported to Haliburton or elsewhere.

On a positive note, Dr. Roos said the clinic's new policy limiting patient visits to a single medical complaint is giving doctors more time to spend with individual patients to assess their problems and implement a treatment regimen. "It also cuts the waiting time for a patient to get in to see a doctor," he said.

Dick Charron of Haliburton Highlands

Health Services acknowledged that it is not a "practical situation" for a Minden doctor to travel to Haliburton to see a patient. He confirmed that two of the Minden doctors have hospital privileges in Haliburton and the third has applied for such privileges.

Unfortunately, even if funding were available for acute care beds in Minden's hospital, there is no practical place to put them without an addition to the facility.

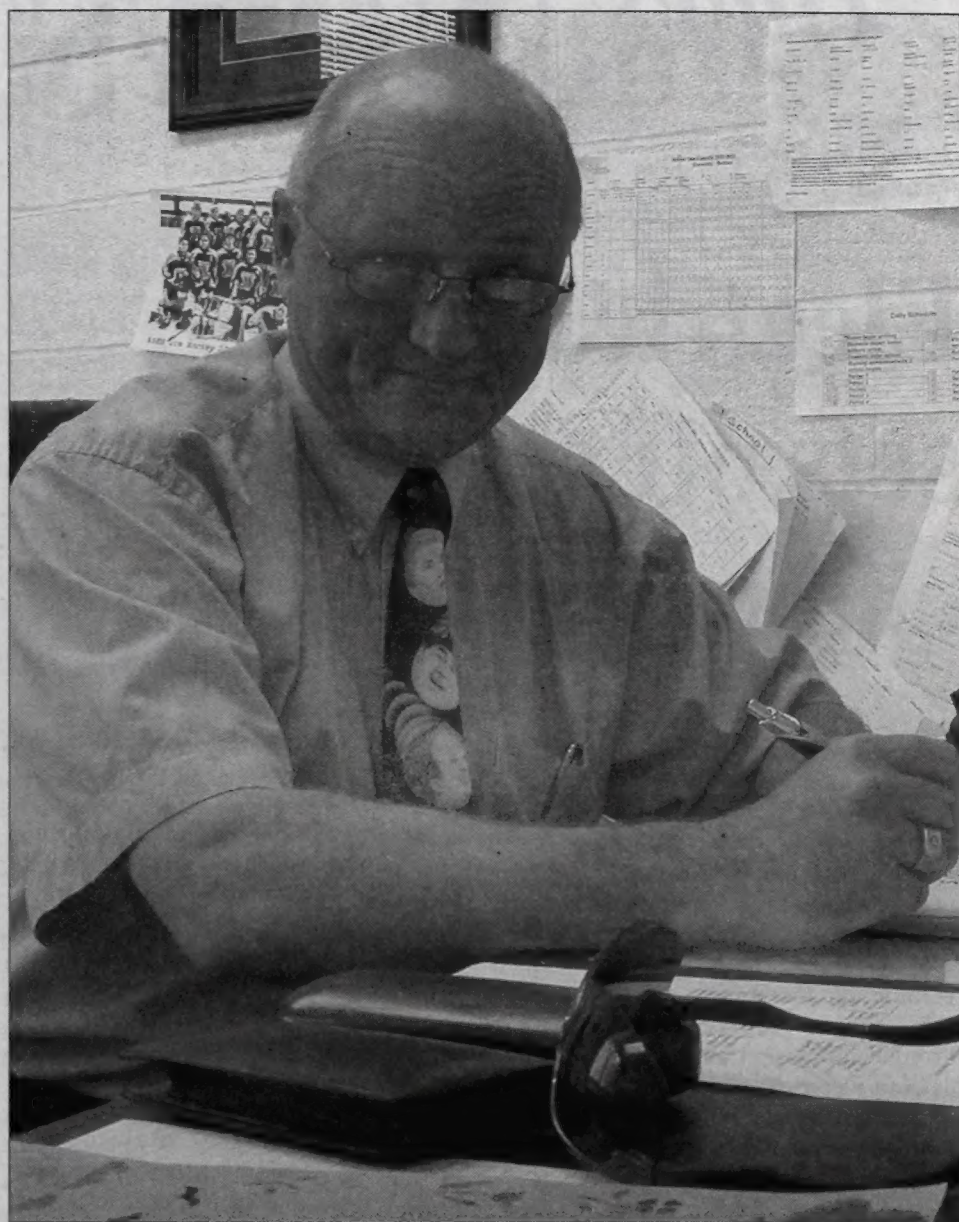

HHHS Chair Jack Brezina said Minden lost its acute care beds when the Minden Hospital was operated by St. Joseph's Hospital of Peterborough.

"At that time, the province was closing beds across the province, and in fact closing hospitals," Brezina said.

St. Joseph's was one of the hospitals that was completely shut down when its services were amalgamated with those of Peterborough Civic Hospital to become Peterborough Regional Health Centre.

"At the time, we were lucky to have any hospital services," he said, pointing out that the Minden Hospital, which was then at the site of the current Minden Animal Clinic, had its emergency services cut to less than 24 hours a day for some time.

When the decision was made to move the Minden Hospital to its current location, adding acute care beds wasn't an option.

School's VP will move into principal's office

by DARREN LUM
Times staff

Archie Stouffer Elementary School vice principal Richard Thorne will officially take over from Rosie Kenney as principal this September.

"I think one of the things I'd like to do is develop a culture of respect between stakeholders... between students and staff and between staff and parents. It creates a much better learning environment," said Thorne.

The Trillium Lakelands District School

Board matched Thorne to the job in May. Thorne has been VP at the elementary school for three years, but has worked as a teacher for 18 years.

"I've taught everything from Grades 3 to Grade 8."

He said he was first inspired to become a teacher in high school after observing his history and geography teachers. "They just had an approach that was fair and consistent with kids," he said.

Archie Stouffer's new vice-principal will be Joan Harpell from Langton P.S. in Bobcaygeon.

Erroneous information appeared in last week's story about Minden Hills' new alcohol policy. Police did determine last fall that the two teenagers involved in the accident that killed a local teenager last Father's Day had been supplied liquor. Two adults were charged with liquor offences but they were not associated with the community dance that weekend.

The Times regrets the error.

County policing could change

by SHERYL LOUCKS
Times staff

Minden Hills attacks Highlands East's decision to switch to Bancroft OPP

The possibility of an alternative policing arrangement in Highlands East triggered an angry response from Minden Hills councillors during a recent committee of the whole meeting.

Deputy-Reeve Jim McMahon brought the issue to council's attention after he received a phone call informing him Highlands East council had been talking to Sgt. Ray Westgarth of the Hastings Highlands Ontario Provincial Police about having Highlands East policed out of Bancroft.

Last Tuesday, Highlands East council made a decision to pursue this alternative for the majority of the municipality.

McMahon says the issue should have been brought before the Community Policing Advisory Committee (CPAC) first. The committee consists of Haliburton County's four deputy reeves and the Minden OPP Detachment Commander Bob Walli. McMahon says problems with policing in Highlands East were on the agenda for the last meeting but the municipality's representative did not attend.

Prior to 1996 the provincial government paid for policing by the OPP in the county. The cost was downloaded as part of a package of services municipalities suddenly had to pay for in exchange for the province taking on education funding.

In this time, the OPP detachment got moved from the old Minden site to Cobocok. McMahon says Haliburton's municipalities fought a hard-won political battle to get a stand-alone detachment in Minden. The Ministry of Natural Resources building was renovated and the detachment moved in after eight of the 10 municipalities agreed to pay this detachment for policing. The two exceptions were Bicroft and Cardiff, which were to be policed out of the Bancroft O.P.P. detachment. There is also an agreement to police Dorset out of Muskoka.

The former municipalities, and the now four amalgamated municipalities, did not have a signed contract with the OPP because McMahon says that would require the formation of a police services board. The problem with a board, he said, is that under provincial regulations such a board can only have one elected politician sitting on it.

Instead, the municipalities opted for a status-quo arrangement and a CPAC, which allows an elected official from each of the four municipalities to sit on the committee. McMahon said it was felt this would give them more local control.

The arrangement is unique, according to Walli, because the billing is not done through the upper tier. He also qualified that in Haliburton County, municipalities do not pay for patrol of waterways, provincial highways or provincial parks.

Each year, municipalities are billed according to the previous year's statistics of incidences the O.P.P. responded to or services rendered. At the end of the year the bill is reconciled with the actual number of calls or services provided.

Highlands East Reeve Keith Tallman says under this arrangement his council is free to decide how it wants to be policed and "it only makes sense to" go to the Bancroft detachment, which already serves Bicroft, Cardiff and part of the former Monmouth township. He says they will still have to meet with senior OPP management to work out the details.

"Distance is our biggest concern. It's three quarters of an hour (to Wilberforce) from Minden. It's too far to Minden - 62 km. We're having a lot of vandalism in this community. The problem is by the time the police get here [the vandals] are gone," says Tallman.

He added that the Minden detachment is well aware of the concerns of the eastern townships and he feels they will get better service from the closer Bancroft detachment - with the exception of Ward 3, the former Glamorgan Township.

Chuck Viner, Highlands East's deputy-reeve, says his ward of Glamorgan will continue to be covered by the Minden detachment.

"In Monmouth, [Wilberforce residents] feel they're not getting the service they need. My personal feeling is in Glamorgan we're getting excellent service. There is no quarrel here," says Viner.

Viner, who sits on CPAC, says Walli has attended the council meetings and tells councillors people are not reporting often enough complaints of vandalism, ATVs on main roads, and other criminal activities. A hair grazing theory - key concerns in Monmouth.

"They say (to Walli) there is no point in complaining because you won't do anything. Staff Sergeant Walli says his officers can't do anything if there's no record of a complaint. It's kind of ridiculous," says Viner.

The consequences of the Highlands East decision will have a ripple effect across the county. McMahon says with a smaller area to police, the Minden detachment could lose a couple of officers at a time when it is about to gain officers. Walli said he could not comment on how the Minden detachment might be affected because he had not been officially informed of Highlands East's decision.

McMahon vowed to oppose Highlands East changing the current arrangement.

"I'm not going to have one reeve tear it apart," McMahon said at council.

"We did too much work to have this torn apart," agreed Reeve Ross Rigney.

McMahon continued to argue that Highlands East is being finicky about when it does and doesn't want to be part of Haliburton County. He says the eastern municipality does not want to participate in the reciprocal roads agreement, contribute to the Chamber of Commerce or the county fair. Rigney says the county government is not prepared to let the eastern corner of Haliburton slip away piece by piece.

McMahon told Minden council that when it comes to policing, Highlands East is getting the best of both worlds by splitting its municipality between the two O.P.P. detachments but the rest of the county will pay the price for it.

School salutes its Super Citizens

by ERIN TENNANT
Times staff

Minden's leading citizens of tomorrow are adamant that when they grow up, one thing they'll do differently is not typecast young people as lesser citizens.

"Give kids a chance," says the recently announced 'Super Citizen' from Archie Stouffer Elementary School, Jake Findeis.

"If adults see some kid skateboarding, they automatically think 'Oh, he's no good'. If I go into a convenience store with friends, the guy behind the counter just watches us like a hawk because he thinks we're going to take something," said the 13-year-old student.

Fellow Super Citizen Natasha McGann, 14, agrees. "I have many friends that wear baggy pants with their hats on sideways. Adults look at them like they're thugs. It's just them expressing who they are and a lot of people frown upon that."

The two were picked for their exemplary citizenship skills out of about 80 Grade 8 students at Archie Stouffer. (Both are prime ministers of the school's student council, which involves running student assemblies, making morning announcements over the school intercom and organizing special school events). They travelled to Bracebridge two weeks ago to receive their award plaque along with 53 other students from participating schools under the Trillium Lakelands District School Board. The students swapped stories about their school experience during a walking tour of the falls and Birds Mill, and a three-hour boat tour down Lake Muskoka.

"I didn't know before I got there what a big honour it was," said Natasha. "When you look around and see all these other kids and hear how involved they are in so many school things, I just felt really lucky to be chosen also."

Said Jake: "I felt personally that we deserved to be there, not just that we'd been picked on a fluke."

The rigours of being outstanding citizens, however, have its lighter moments.

"One morning I had to make an announcement about baseball off the top of my head," said Jake. But it was not Jake's morning at the school intercom microphone. "There was a big pause as I forgot what I had to say."

But by the time Jake finally remembered the announcement, it was too late for his co-prime minister.

"I burst out laughing right over the intercom," said Natasha. "Everyone called me Chuckles for the next three weeks."

However, both are mindful of their standing in the school as role models for other students.

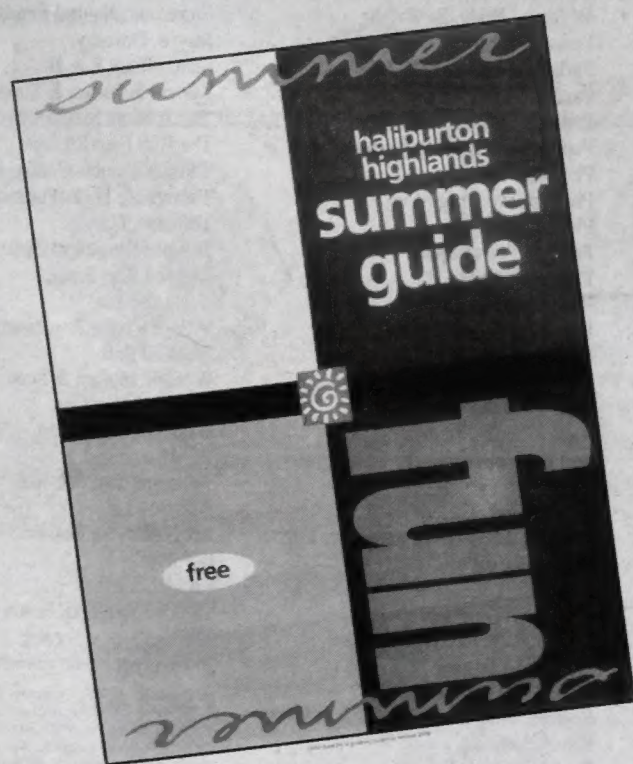

"We have everyone looking up to us and that must be one of the biggest privilege," said Natasha.

Adds Jake: "What's cool is how every other kid knows what your name is."

Rachel's Bakery wants its cake to rise to the top

by JERRY GROZELLE
Times staff

A Canadian record may be set on Canada Day. Master Baker Marian Markowski is planning to bake a cake like no other in Canada to help celebrate the occasion and he will have some international help.

He plans to engineer the biggest cake ever to be made and delivered in Canada.

Markowski has arranged to have at least two pastry chefs, one from Poland and one from Chicago, come to Minden to assist in the construction of the cake. It will be at least four layers thick and weigh several hundred pounds.

Markowski will close the Minden bakery on June 30 so his crew can bake and assemble the cake.

Several international and local companies have pledged support for the effort. Dawn Food Products of Canada, one of Markowski's suppliers, is providing products and the company's vice president, Phil Robinson, plans to come to Minden the day before Canada Day so he can be here for the festivities.

Coca-Cola, Elco Fine Foods, Casino

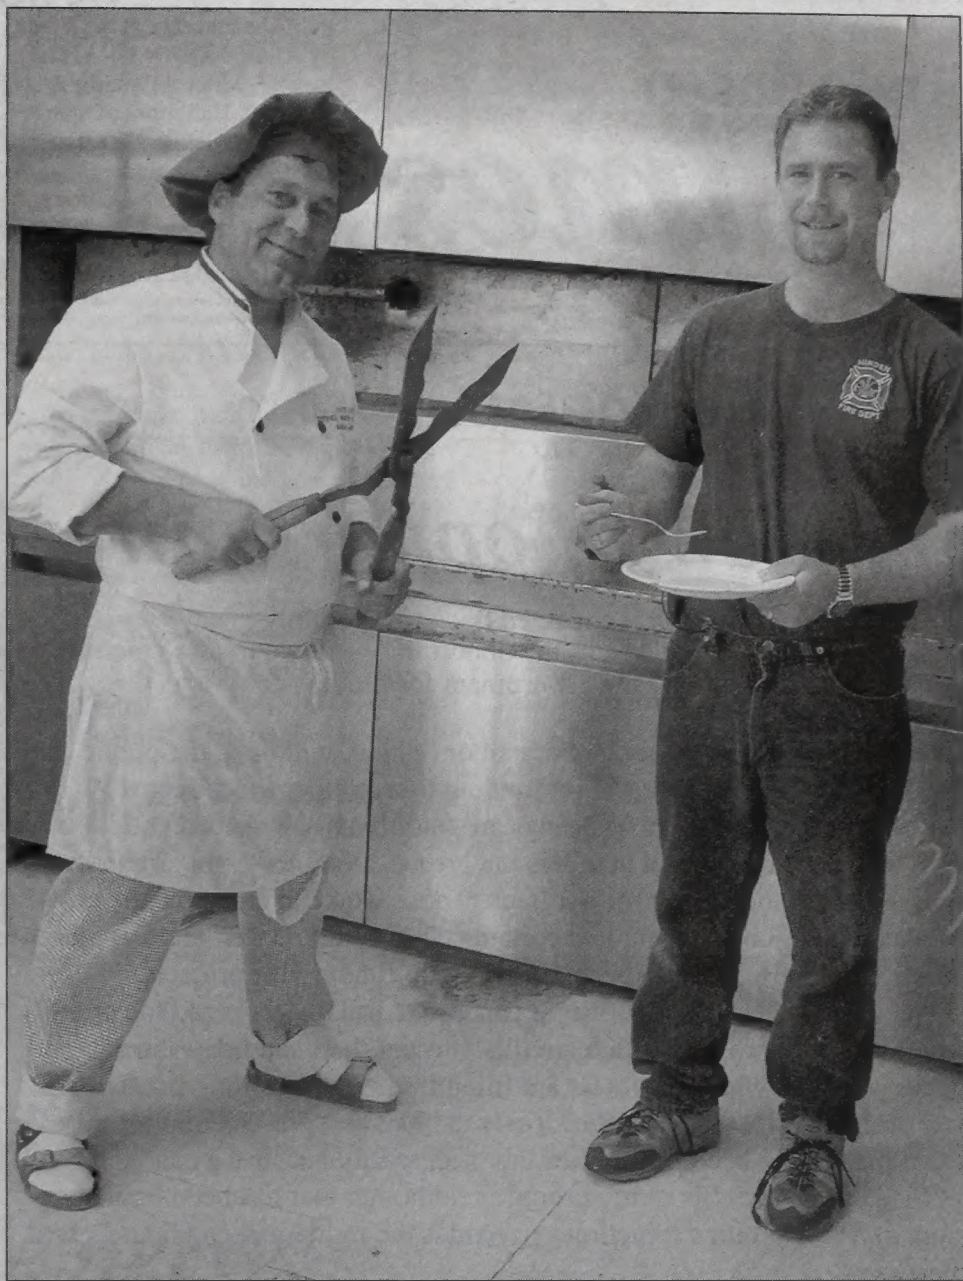

Rama, Kawartha Dairy, Minden Valu-mart, Dollo's IGA Stedman's V&S and The Gravity Coffee House are supporting the record-breaking Canada Day cake project.

The Minden Home Hardware outlet is donating the material (plywood and lumber) to build the base on which the cake will be assembled and Holden Trusses will construct the base.

Markowski has made a pact with Minden Hills Fire Chief Doug Schell. Schell will designate four to six people to deliver the cake to a weigh station to have it weighed and then to its final destination in Minden's downtown area. If the cake suffers major damage in transit, Markowski will shave Schell's head.

The fire chief's head will be shaved even if the cake arrives intact. He is one of several firefighters, OPP officers and Haliburton county EMS personnel who are having their heads shaved as a fundraiser for Camp BUCKO, a camp for children who have suffered serious burns.

The only difference is who will be on the other end of the razor or hedge shears — Master Baker Marian Markowski or a professional hair care specialist.

Minden Fire Chief Doug Schell, right, accepts the challenge of Master Baker Marian Markowski to deliver Canada's largest birthday cake to Minden's Canada Day festivities. Failure to deliver the cake intact will give Markowski the opportunity to shave the fire chief's head. With garden shears?

Window of opportunity

A provincial election is expected this year, possibly in early September. That gives us the opportunity – a two to three month window – to lobby the government for funding for things that are important to us.

Any government in power, provincial or federal, will open the public coffers to bolster support by offering funding that at other times seems unavailable. The public purse strings are traditionally loosened and it is often the squeakiest wheel that gets the grease. Obviously, governments want to get the most bang for our buck. Those who can convince the powers that be that money spent in a certain riding could benefit them at the polls are the most likely to be supported with funding for projects.

On the other hand, the opposition parties are usually prepared to commit support to local projects which are likely to put their candidates in a favourable light when the voters are filing through the polling booths. The only problem with the latter scenario is the fact that pre-election promises sometimes fail to become realities, not necessarily because a candidate deliberately ignores his or her promises (although that has been known to happen). Party politics sometimes overrides the individual candidate's best intentions.

The point is, now is the time to contact your MPP, the various ministers and even the premier with requests for funding for specific projects within your community. Encourage your friends, family and anyone who will listen to do the same. A flood of letters may just sway our provincial representatives to direct some funding this way.

Requests to our MPP, Chris Hodgson may be preaching to the converted since he has always been supportive of projects of benefit to this riding. But it wouldn't hurt to contact him and send copies of requests to the appropriate minister, such as Health Minister Tony Clement, and Premier Ernie Eves.

Locally, there are a couple of potential projects that might benefit from some public lobbying.

A proposal for a community medical centre at the Minden Hospital/Hyland Crest facility has been submitted and a decision is expected within the next few weeks. Public support in the form of letters, e-mails and telephone calls always provide positive reinforcement.

Another potential project, although it hasn't yet been formally proposed, is the need for some acute care beds at the Minden Hospital. This one may be a hard sell, given the potential cost, but it doesn't hurt to ask. It would probably mean an addition to house the beds, but the benefits to the community would be substantial.

The Minden doctors must send patients who require a hospital stay to the Haliburton Hospital or farther afield. That makes it difficult for them to visit patients since it requires a minimum of an hour away from their practice for a five- or 10-minute consultation with the patient. Arranging for a Haliburton doctor to attend to Minden patients is sometimes possible, but with the local shortage of doctors, their resources are already taxed to the limit without adding to the workload.

Acute care beds in Minden would cure that malady.

If you support either or both of these, or some other initiative, contact current MPP Chris Hodgson, Conservative candidate Laurie Scott, Health Minister Tony Clement, Premier Ernie Eves, Liberal candidate Jason Ward, NDP candidate Earl Manners and anyone else who will listen.

This type of opportunity only comes every few years.

Volunteer appreciation event?

To the Editor:

I am writing today in regards to the editorial comment of the Monday June 2nd, 2003 edition of the Minden Times entitled "All together now."

As long-time subscribers to both the Times and the Echo, we have always been so impressed about the strength and dedication of the individuals and groups in Haliburton County. Now as "year-rounders" who consider this our home also, we have seen first hand a lot of the behind the scenes work of so many persons as we have begun to share some of our time.

It really does take a community of people as individuals to build a local community. Often these local heroes are unsung heroes and your editorial demonstrates in a tangible manner that The Times understands the importance of volunteers.

Perhaps some one or some group (perhaps the local newspapers in co-operation with others) would arrange for an annual "county volunteer recognition event" where all volunteers would gather? Perhaps take over one of the arenas or local halls one Saturday evening a year to celebrate the sharing in our county as distinct from the results. As this evolves, perhaps an awards and recognition program especially focused on the youth and young adults could be developed. They are the future.

You are to be commended for your editorial and your rallying call for all to share their time, talents, energy, efforts and financial resources, as they are able. They are sharing their time also - their absolute, most finite resources.

Columnists and Letters to the Editor

A hair grazing theory

It seems to me that modern society places entirely too much emphasis on a full head of hair. That's why, several years ago, I began my one-man protest of keeping vast expanses of my forehead intentionally bald. The purpose of this noble act was, and still is, to show solidarity with all those poor, bald men out there who are tormented with nicknames such as Chrome Dome, Cue Ball and Bullethead. As always, I'm with you brothers!

Few people know this about me. Instead they've made the rather false presumption that I'm suffering from some sort of hair loss too. Nothing could be further from the truth. It just appears that way because I have unusually low eyebrows.

Actually, I'm constantly struggling to keep my luxuriant bangs in check. If I don't clip them back, morning, noon and night, I often endure the humiliation of being mistaken for one of the Beatles — usually Paul, the cute one. I'm not complaining, mind you. I realize that we all have crosses to bear. But, I'll admit that between that and my animal magnetism, life is certainly no bowl of cherries for me.

I only mention all of this because quite a few anthropologists now believe that the reason ancient humans evolved smooth, hairless skin was to show potential mates that they were not covered in blood-sucking insects. I'm no anthropologist but tend to agree with this thought. Let's face it, even now, many people place a ridiculously high priority on latching onto an insect-free mate.

Of course, many consider this theory to be quite revolutionary. Prior, it was thought that the purpose of hair was to control body temperature in hot climates as well as to provide Vidal Sassoon with a ridiculously lucrative source of income.

The bug theory makes a lot more sense to me.

I'll even take it one step further. I propose that this is the reason that you see so many bald men in cottage country. With all the black flies, deer flies, mosquitoes, no-see-ums, horse flies, dock spiders and other biting insects, many of us choose baldness to alleviate the apprehension that some people have when it comes to biting insects. The Hawaiian shirts, shorts and white knee-high socks merely reinforce that feeling.

It's actually quite an unselfish act that too few truly appreciate.

Nevertheless, when a bald person walks down the street with a head gleaming in the sun, thus providing valuable navigational information to low flying aircraft, you can rest easy knowing that no biting insect could possibly take refuge there. It'd be like sitting on a solar panel. If they laid eggs there, they would probably fry.

Unfortunately, the same can't be said of a person who selfishly harbors a full head of hair. That's due, in no small part, to the fact that they can't lay eggs. But I digress.

The point is, next time you see a balding man illuminating the beach, walk over and give a word of thanks and encouragement. Recognize that baldness in cottage country is essentially a public service and those who practice it, even if only in some small part, are civic minded to say the least.

Let them know that you're grateful that they are on the cutting edge of West Nile prevention. And though you know it's not always easy denying mosquito's habitat, you think it's vitally important.

We'd appreciate that. After all, it's for you that we're doing our part — usually way off to the left with a very awkward comb over.

Of all the nerve!

One of the strengths of the English language is that, when it doesn't have a decent home-grown word, it imports as necessary from foreign tongues.

One of our great imports is 'chutzpah'. It comes from Yiddish and means 'supreme self-confidence'. Nerve, gall.

And a little bit more.

Michelle Landsberg, a columnist for the Toronto Daily Star used to live in New York City. She wrote a book about it called "This Is New York, Honey!"

The title came from something that happened to her on Park Avenue one afternoon. Landsberg had hailed a taxi, open the back door and was about to climb in, when she was blind-sided, cross-checked and left on the curb by a well-dressed matron who deftly wedged herself in the cab and started barking instructions to the driver.

"B-b-b-but I hailed this taxi" objected Landsberg. The interloper fixed her with a deadpan stare and snarled "This is New York, honey" as the taxi sped away. That's chutzpah.

But you don't have to live in New York to encounter the phenomenon. OJ Simpson was in the news recently musing about how he'd like to try his hand as a news commentator — on the upcoming trial of alleged actor/murderer Robert Blake.

"I think I have a lot of insight," said Simpson — also an alleged actor/murderer. That's chutzpah. If Fox News signs him up, that'll be chutzpah squared.

There's a Swazi radio correspondent who seems to have a fair dose of the condition as well. This guy was providing live daily reports from Baghdad during the recent Saddamectomy. He was one of the very few correspondents willing to risk their lives to be at the centre of the attack as the American maelstrom descended.

At least, that's what his radio listeners thought. Turns out he was broadcasting from a broom closet in downtown Johannesburg.

And let's not forget Sinéad O'Connor in the Chutzpah Sweepstakes. The Irish thrush-cum-flake, famous for shredding a picture of the Pope on stage, has announced that she is retiring from show business. "I request that as of July, since

I no longer seek to be a famous person, and instead I wish to live a normal life, could people please afford me my privacy," she wrote. On her website.

Hey, Sinéad — no problem here. I won't call if you don't call.

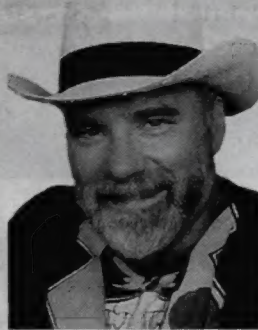

No report on chutzpah would be complete without some input from the legal profession. I nominate Manhattan lawyer Jeffrey Powell. He recently sued singer-songwriter John Fogarty for $5 million US as compensation for "profound loss of hearing in his left ear." Seems Mister Powell went to a music concert featuring Mister Fogarty and found the music 'too loud'.

Alas, Mister Powell's complaints fell on deaf ears. An unsympathetic judge pointed out that "an objective, reasonable, 56-year-old lawyer" should be smart enough to intuit that voluntarily purchasing a ticket to a rock concert might conceivably lead to loud music causing hearing impairment.

He threw the case out.

Give your head a shake, Mister

ARTHUR BLACK

Columnist

Powell. Might clear that left ear.

Any Canadian chutzpah candidates — or are we just too bland, diffident and polite in The Great White North to play in the Brass Balls Big Leagues?

Meet Dustin Dickeson, of Sechelt, B.C. He's 21 years old now but he's got more mileage on his odometer than the average 21-year-old. Back when he was 17, Dickeson had an affair with his high school accounting teacher.

Word got out, the ordure hit the air-circulating device, the teacher was canned and Dickeson was protected by a court-ordered publication ban.

Well, Dickeson went to court to get the ban lifted. Seems he's graduated (?) into a self-styled gangsta rapper, complete with a home-pressed CD.

"I got stuff coming up in New York" he explained to a provincial court judge. That's why he wanted the publication ban removed. He wanted to cash in on his notoriety.

Traumatized by the event? Not hardly. There's a song on his CD called Teacher's Scandal, which features the tender lyric: "the bitch couldn't resist my charm."

Sounds to me like Dustin Dickeson is ready for New York.

If he'll promise to take out citizenship, I'll kick in for bus fare.

Do you have Ranson Family info?

To the Editor:

Hello I am trying desperately to get more information on the Ranson family of Haliburton County.

I am wondering about a marriage that took place in 1868 in Peterborough Co. My relatives lived in Haliburton, I thought, but I know the two counties split in 1874. Were Lutterworth, Anson and Minden Twp. part of Peterborough Co. in 1868 and 1869?

I am disappointed that there are no back issues of the Minden Times as a large branch of my family that we have been looking for many years resided there.

I am looking for (death) info on any Ransons in that area and particularly: Ann Ranson d. July 5, 1894, Minden; Robert Ranson d. Sept. 21, 1878, Minden; and James Ranson d. Mar. 1, 1933, Minden (married Isabella Cochrane) and had three children that vanished, Mary Jane, Sarah and Charles. So I am hoping to get an obit for James as I can't locate his children anywhere.

Please let me know if there is anything you can do for me or direct me to the appropriate area.

Respect comrades!

To the Editor:

Re: the article "It's About Respect" in the June 9th issue of the Minden Times. I take exception to some comments made by Gord Martin relating to Minden Legion Branch 636. As the immediate past president, (albeit not by his choice) he should know that if you have an issue with the Legion, that is where it should be discussed. That's what executive and branch meetings are for. It IS about respect — respect for your fellow comrades!

Shame on you Gord. I look forward to discussing this further at our next executive meeting.

Respectfully submitted by another past president.

Debbie Ray's 'guts and determination' win respect

Grade 11 student Debbie Ray was totally surprised to win the HHSS female athlete of the year award at school's athletic banquet on June 10. The award, usually reserved for a graduating student, honours overall athletic achievement at the high school. In fact Ray says she didn't even realize a younger student could win the award.

Teacher and coach Traci Hubbert introduced Ray as the winner, describing her "guts and determination" as reasons for the choice. She said Ray is one of the strongest players on every team she competes with, and it's a long list.

Over the past year Ray was involved with field hockey, volleyball, soccer, badminton, snowboarding, track and field and curling, and that's just at the high school. Outside of school she swims and plays baseball and soccer.

"I've always loved to be active," Ray says. "It's the friends and the feeling of being part of a team that I like."

She points to her field hockey team's silver medal finish at COSSA as a highlight of the year.

Ray has kind words for HHSS coaches Paul Morissette, Jason Morissette and Traci Hubbert. "Paul's way of teaching is amazing. He can change your entire mood with his words. Jay is younger and more of a friend and Ms. Hubbert is an awesome role model," she says.

With her incredible commitment to sports, balancing academics can be a challenge. "I try my best to manage everything. I don't do many intramurals at lunch because I'm usually catching up on work I've missed," Ray says.

During busy times, she sometimes missed three days of school a week for sports. "My teachers are really understanding. I remember one moment I'll never forget. We went on a bus to Belleville for track and I had a history test the next day. Paul Morissette helped me study all the way there and back and I aced the test."

She would like to get even more involved with sports next year, possibly organizing school trips to the ski school at Sir Sam's.

Andrew Mansfield leads the way in athletics

The male athlete of the year award was a fitting honour for graduating student Andrew Mansfield. His dedication to sport is unquestioned and his peers respect him. Andrew received the award at the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School athletic banquet on June 10.

He played soccer, basketball and badminton as HHSS this year, winning the MVP award for all three teams at last Tuesday's banquet. Andrew also won the award of excellence, recognizing his commitment to both intramural sports and varsity teams over his entire career at HHSS.

But the athlete of the year award is something Andrew's had his eye on since he started at the high school. Although winning the award wasn't as important to Andrew as how he won it. "The goal wasn't to be athlete of the year but to work hard and try to do the best I could do, to try to be a leader on my teams. Those were the kind of things I strived for," Andrew says.

Andrew says earning the respect of his competitors is one of the most satisfying parts of sport. That, along with the feeling of accomplishment he gets from trying his best, makes it all worthwhile.

The most memorable sports moment of the year for Andrew was the senior soccer team's comeback in their playoff game against Fenelon Falls. HHSS was down 2-nil going into the second half when Andrew scored for the Red Hawks. The team went on to win 3-2 in overtime, finishing the season in second place in their league.

Speaking at the athletic banquet Andrew thanked his coaches, and in particular Jason Morissette for not just athletic leadership, but friendship. "With all of my coaches, we gain respect for each other that always turns into more than just a coach-player relationship," he says.

Andrew says he will always remember his days on the fields and courts of HHSS. "They were some of the best times of my high school career. That's where I learned some of the most meaningful lessons."

This well-rounded young athlete will soon be packing his bags for Kingston. He was accepted to study engineering at Queen's University.

HHSS names its Athletes of the Year

Minden teenagers Andrew Mansfield and Debbie Ray have earned the respect and admiration of their peers and coaches. They received the school's top athletic honours at the awards banquet last Tuesday.

Golf is in full swing at high school

Golf is alive and well at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School! In early May, 24 players braved the winds at Blairhampton Golf Course in an attempt to qualify for eight team positions. When the dust settled, Gord Timbers, Jesse Johnson, Andy Dawson, Shawn Heming, Travis Burke, Norm Smith, Ryan Hutson, and Sean Keaney made the grade.

In Kawartha League play, Haliburton's four players (Gord, Jesse, Andy, Shawn) competed in a 36-hole team competition for the right to play at COSSA in Peterborough.

The first round was held at Wolf Run Golf Course. Jesse Johnson fired a smooth 77 to lead the team. Gord Timbers finished with an 83, Andy 85 and Shawn rounded out the scoring with an 87. By the end of the day the HHSS Team was tied for second place.

The scene shifted home to the Blairhampton Golf Course for the second round. Although scores were not as stellar as at Wolf Run, Haliburton still finished second. Jesse Johnson's two round total of 164 was good enough to qualify in the individual category at COSSA. Jesse played an excellent round at the Peterborough Golf Club in the COSSA tournament shooting an 83 on a difficult day. He ended up in the top half of the 32 player field.

To end the season, all eight players travelled to Port Hope to play in the Kawartha-Pine Ridge Invitational at Ash Brook Golf Club. Over 120 players competed and four HHSS players finished in the top 20. Gord Timbers shot a superb 74 to tie for third place. Jesse Johnson finished in the top ten with a solid 77. Norm Smith and Andy Dawson fired very respectable rounds of 79 each. The four-player team of Andy, Norm, Jesse, and Shawn finished tied for fifth out of 30 teams.

Coaches Paul Longo and Ken Rosenberg said they were extremely pleased with the commitment of the players this spring to improve their game. More importantly, they represented HHSS with pride and good sportsmanship. The players especially appreciated the help of Coach Rosenberg in fine-tuning their swings. Coach Longo said "It is a real asset to have such a fine coach, player, and student of the game working with the youth of Haliburton County. Next season looks very promising."

The Highlands' Special Olympics team is celebrating its fifth year of fellowship and fun thanks to community's help.

Red Wolves bowling team appreciates support

As the Red Wolves celebrate the end of their fifth successful season, it seems fitting to congratulate our home county and beyond for everyone's past and continued support. Know that your contributions have made a tremendous difference to the overall success of new opportunities afforded our team.

Successful weekly training sessions at Minden lanes (formerly known as County Bowling Centre) better enabled our athletes to compete locally as well as in annual tournaments in Peterborough, Oshawa and Toronto. The Haliburton County Red Wolves have been able to send three athletes to compete with Master Bowlers' Association of Ontario - Lisa Burk, Brian Neville and Chris Snoddon. As an added bonus for Chris Snoddon, he became our 2003 Athlete of the Year. Chris has been with the Red Wolves since their inception in '98. He not only accumulated the highest total team pin-fall (7,843), but he also managed to record the highest personal best score (316). The ultimate tribute for Chris was when Scott and Michelle Moore, owners of Minden Lanes, extended an invitation to Chris to join their regular league... inclusion at its best!

The Red Wolves are very appreciative of the many supporters and volunteers who make such meaningful differences. Our team is especially blessed with an awesome group of dedicated student and adult coaches who tirelessly give of themselves. Did you know that 90 per cent of our coaches have their Canadian Special Olympics NCCP Technical Level 1 certification and that collectively, have volunteered hundreds of hours to support this county's Red Wolves Special Olympic team?

Lastly, the Red Wolves extend a huge thank you to our local OPP Detachment, Commander Bob Walli, Officer and Co-ordinator Jon King and OPP families for once again including our team in the May 31st Law Enforcement Provincial Torch Run. We thank those businesses that contribute those added special treats!

The Ontario Law Enforcement Torch Run for Special Olympics is a year-round fund-raising and awareness and promotion program. It is organized by law enforcement personnel from across the province for Ontario's Special Olympics Athletes. All of the money collected by police officers goes directly to the provincial account for Special Olympics. Any money our team is fortunate enough to raise, through pledges, donations and mini pots will be sent back to our local team. We are so grateful for all contributions.

If you missed the Torch Run through Dorset, Haliburton or Minden and would like to contribute to the Red Wolves, your cheque can be made payable to Ontario Special Olympics/Red Wolves and sent to Linda J. Brandon, HC, Box 641, Minden, ON, K0M 2K0.

Special to the Times

Friday, June 20 will see the first jitney of the season, so all members and social members are reminded to sign up soon. The usual morning game will be followed by a pot luck luncheon and an afternoon game (providing we haven't eaten too much!). It will be a fun day so come out and enjoy.

You can still come out any Friday during the season from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Minden Curling Club (downstairs) and try lawn bowling for yourself. Fridays are fun evenings and there are usually members there who will be more than happy to give you assistance and/or advice. It's free and we do wish to encourage potential new members!

Timbersports hits a bullseye

After a week of rain, the skies cleared just in time for Minden's annual celebration of the fine art of cutting through wood. Our photographer, DARREN LUM, took these photos of some of the competitors in the morning events. At right, it takes a steady hand and a good eye to throw an axe right on target. Below, Andrew Hebert sprays splinters of wood during the 0-81cc chainsaw competition. TSN was also in town shooting scenes for an upcoming segment.

We'll have the results in next week's Times.

Mike Nadeau, from Cobalt, Ontario, lays into a piece of lumber during the first heats of the standing chop, above. During one of the chainsaw events, this young audience member at right covered her ears so she could get an upclose view of the intense competition.

Minden Hills lags behind in sewer/water fees

by SHERYL LOUCKS
Times staff

The following are brief reports from a Minden Hills meeting of the committee of the whole on June 12.

Municipalities are being required to move towards full cost recovery plans for water and sewage systems by the provincial government and Minden Hills will be implementing new charges to meet that goal.

Robert Romberg, environmental and property operations manager, said the municipality is currently far behind other areas in what they charge for sewer/water services. At the present time, no fee or a very minor fee is collected from a contractor or resident in regards to connecting to the township's infrastructure, and no fees collected for water turn on or off.

Romberg says the township is losing "a good source of revenue by not imposing fees for this service."

He says several municipalities charge in excess of $1,000 for a new water/sewer connection. He is recommending $500 for either a sewer or water connection or if both services are installed at the same time $600. He has a suggested price scale for size of pipe and various situations.

He is also suggesting that a $30 charge be applied for water turn on or off services.

The full details are included in a draft application form for customers to fill out for water connections, sewer connections, and water turn on, turn off.

Councillors did not oppose the idea and will be examining the draft.

Calling BIA Members

Former members of the now dissolved Minden BIA will be recalled to temporarily form and allocate a leftover budget of $3,700. The new Minden Business Association has requested at least $500 from the fund to pay the horticulture society for flowers in the village.

The only way to access those dollars is to reconstruct the board and have it submit a budget to council. It was moved that council attempt to do follow that recommendation and in the meantime the $500 will be given to the MBA from municipal coffers until that money can be repaid when the old BIA's budget is recovered.

Parking Fines

People issued parking fines for parking in an area where there is not a no parking sign will have their tickets voided.

The parking debate erupted after the bylaw officer issued a ticket in an area that, under the current bylaw, does not have to be posted in order to issue a ticket.

The conversation evolved into a debate about the parking scheme for the village and how there are problem areas on Peck Street and in front of the Post Office and Riverview Furniture. Councillor Peter Oyler suggested staff investigate a better parking scheme and consult with affected businesses. Councillor Ingram Wessell warned he did not want to see fewer spots in the village as a result of any changes.

Hanging Flowers

It is too late to purchase hanging flower pots for the year, says Romberg. He says brackets were purchased for an exorbitant cost and some of them were destroyed by vandals last year. Next year he would like to install the brackets higher up on the poles to be less susceptible to vandalism.

Kids celebrate 100 years of flying history

Local pilots honour centennial of Wright Brothers' achievements

by DARREN LUM
Times staff

Matthew Guyatt is finding a place in the clouds. Guyatt, 17, has always had a fascination with airplanes and flight since he was a young boy but he'd never been able to take to the skies.

His dream of flying was realized when he participated in the last Young Eagles weekend at the Haliburton-Algonquin Highlands Municipal Airport on June 7 and 8.

"My father and I just saw it promoted in the newspaper. I always wanted to go and always wanted to fly," said Guyatt, a Halls Lake resident.

Back on the ground, he's happy he went. "I like the view and the different perspective up there."

With this experience he wants to pursue a career as a bush pilot, believing that is where the real flying occurs.

Guyatt was one of 114 new Young Eagles.

"The children get excited," says airport manager John Packer. "They like it. It's a great introduction to a hobby that can turn into a vocation."

This event has been held around the world by pilots registered with the Experimental Aircraft Association for several years. They hoped to fly one million children, between the ages of eight to 17, before the centennial of the Wright brothers' first flight on Dec. 17.

There were eight pilots who participated for this year's local event. They were equally as excited as the first time flyers.

Visiting pilot Ed O'Donohoe, who flew out of Buttonville airport in Richmond Hill, loves to give children the same excitement he gets whenever he flies.

"I love flying... We're more than grateful [to pass that love on]," O'Donohoe, whose wife Sandy also flies.

"He was into it for life. I realized I'd better get into it, too" Sandy said, who earned her flying credentials a year after her husband.

Across North America, EAA pilots will continue to take children flying for the rest of the year. Call Stanhope Airport for airplane rides to help them contribute to the EAA milestone. There have been 914,275 children who have become a Young Eagle through this event.

This year's organizer Bill Small, filling in for Barry Hart, expects the airport to continue providing children with the unique experience of flight.

"We hope it'll carry along just under a different name," he said.

Packer agrees and said all the pilots who fly out of the airport would love to continue even after this year.

"If you fly one million children and everybody likes doing it why wouldn't you keep doing the same thing," Packer said.

Writing contest brings out local literary talent

by JERRY GROZELLE
Times staff

The Minden area is well known for its abundance of talented artists. It may soon be known for its plethora of literary talent as well, if the entrants in the inaugural Short Story Writing Contest, held by the Agnes Jamieson Gallery, are any indication.

A total of 17 entries were submitted to the contest in four categories, including Grades 7 and 8, Grades 9 and 10, Grades 11 and 12 and Adult.

Adjudicators of the contest, Marjorie Green and Shirley McCormick, admitted to having a hard time making their selections because of the quality of work submitted.

Topping the list of the youngest group was Allana Coburn of Minden, who will soon celebrate her 13th birthday. She received a T-shirt, donated by the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce.

Jerry Grozelle/TIMES

The top entries in the Short Story Writing Contest were, left to right, Anna Sanderson, Adjudicator Marjorie Green, Nick Russell, Allana Coburn, Sonya Proctor, William Small and Robyn Thomas.

The Grade 9 and 10 division winner was Anna Sanderson of Minden. Her prize was a gift certificate from Undercover Books.

Nick Russell, also of Minden, took top honours in the Grade 11 and 12 division. He received a gift certificate from Radio Shack.

Sonya Proctor of Minden was the winner of the Adult division with her submission titled Lilly's Gift. She was thrilled to receive a one-week writing course at Sir Sandford Fleming College. "I've always wanted to take a writing course," she said at the Literary Night, held at the gallery June 10 to present awards to the short story writing contest winners.

She advises any would-be writers to follow their dreams.

Three entrants in the Adult division received honourable mention for their work, including William Small of Hawk Lake, Robyn Thomas of Minden and Penny Gumbert of Huntsville.

The winner of each division as well as William Small, who earned an honourable mention, read his or her story aloud at the Literary Night. Marjorie Green, who judged the student divisions, pointed out that it is always easier to write than to stand up and read one's work.

Agnes Jamieson Gallery Administrator Laurie Carmount said the contest will be an annual event. "The stories were just great," she said. "I really enjoyed reading all of them."

Kinsmen Truck Pull set for this weekend

by JERRY GROZELLE
Times staff

The Minden fairgrounds will be transformed into a truck enthusiast's paradise on Saturday, June 21. That is the day of the 16th annual Minden Kinsmen Truck Pull and Show and Shine.

The pulling competitions will feature everything from lawn and garden tractors and all terrain vehicles to tri-axle dump trucks and highway tractors, and everything in between. Registration will begin at 8 a.m., with the lawn tractor pulls starting at 9 o'clock. The ATV pulls follow and the truck pulling events will begin at noon.

The cut-off for registration to the show and shine is 11:30 a.m.

Food, refreshments, a beer tent and camping will be available.

The event will culminate with a dance at the Minden Community Centre with music by a popular local DJ.

Kinsmen member Gord Barter, who is helping to organize the event, said that the club is offering a special package deal of $15 for both the truck pull/show and shine and the dance. Admission to each has traditionally been $10 each, which will continue for those who plan to attend one or the other.

CHACE kids learn about summer safety

by JERRY GROZELLE
Times staff

Angie Andrews brought a message to the youngsters of the CHACE Daycare on June 5. A health promoter with the Haliburton, Kawartha Pine Ridge Health Unit, Andrews prepared the youngsters for the coming summer by teaching them some summer safety tips.

Andrews offered the tips in ways the children could easily understand. She brought along several items, such as a bicycle helmet, insect head net and other things the children would find useful over the coming months.

Protection from the elements and basic safety messages such as wearing life jackets around water and helmets when riding bikes were on the agenda. She stressed the importance of wearing sunscreen to prevent exposure to harmful ultraviolet rays. "I think they [the children] got something from the presentation," Andrews said. "They paid attention even through the video. It's nice to know they actually learned something."

The presentation and video titled "Cover up" lasted about half an hour.

The music video focused on sun safety, teaching the pre-schoolers to wear sunscreen, wear a hat and stay in the shade as much as possible during the peak hours of sunshine.

"I tried to focus on activities kids do in the summer, such as bike riding, swimming, sun safety and keeping bugs at bay. The focus was injury prevention."

Andrews gave the youngsters a variety of safety issues to think about. "I try to teach them to have a fun summer, but to be safe at the same time," she said.

Above: Angie Andrews was decked out in bicycle helmet, life jacket, bug jacket and other summer safety gear as she delivered her summer safety tips to youngsters at the CHACE Daycare facility recently. She provided useful information that the children easily understood.

Right: Youngsters at the CHACE Daycare learned how to avoid summertime dangers. They learned about the hazard of overexposure to the sun, how to protect themselves from insect bites and the importance of bicycle safety and wearing life preservers around water.

OPP Bear Hug Band visits Dorset

The children from Irwin Memorial Elementary School (former students of Dorset Public School) in Dwight were treated to a musical performance by the OPP Bear Hug Band at the Dorset Community Centre on June 4. The band teaches children safety in a variety of areas such as fire and the importance of wearing a car seat belt. The band consists of volunteers Jim Freake, Al Marshal, Marty Flindall, and Terry-Lynn Mahusky. The emcee was Barry Sokoloski.

The joy on the students' faces shows that although the Bear Hug Band's message is serious, the delivery is lots of fun.

Kinmount set for Canada Day bash

Once again our small town's volunteers have stepped up to the plate. Here in Kinmount the Canada Day Committee has planned a great celebration on Sunday, June 29 at the Fairgrounds from 5:30 p.m. until dusk. Festivities include the Blackfly Boogie Band, horse drawn wagon rides, Checkers the Clown, children's games and races, with the Royal Canadian Legion Colour Parade at 7 p.m.

Bring your own lawn chairs and enjoy the Fireworks Display at dusk. Refreshments will be available at the concession stand. A Silver Collection will be taken to support this event.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Kinmount Legion Branch 441 will be holding its "Kids Bingo" program on Monday evenings at 7 p.m. starting on June 30 and running through until August 25. All ages are welcome.

On June 4, 38 students from elementary and secondary schools in the Peterborough Victoria Northumberland and Clarington Catholic District School Board were honoured for their positive actions and attitudes. Each school had the opportunity to select a student who had met a wide variety of criteria and Kinmount's Jacob Lang was chosen by his school St. John's School, Kirkfield as its recipient. Once again Jacob congratulations on your achievement.

Engineers Bob and Henry of the Kinmount Model Railroad are still looking for additional crew members to assist with welcoming visitors at the Station and sharing the history of the railroad as the trains travelled between Kinmount and Haliburton. If you can assist give Bob Mitchell a call at 488-2057.

Dan Klochkoff, a Minden resident, was very involved with the model railroad painting the backdrops from photographs he personally went out and took. Dan has now passed away and his contributions are gratefully remembered and acknowledged.

There will be a Yard/Bake Sale Fund Raiser for St. Patrick's ball field on Saturday June 28, rain or shine, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on the ball field. All proceeds will go to ball field renovations and donations of items would be greatly appreciated. See Tom or Carol at Kinmount Foodtown 488-2211.

As part of its Centennial Calendar of Events, an Open House with Ada Handley will be held at St. Luke's Anglican Church of Burnt River on Sunday, June 22 from 2 to 4 p.m. All are welcome.

WE WOULD LIKE to say thank you for a wonderful surprise 25th Anniversary Party. To our children, Natasha and Jeff, and Gavin and Nichole, for planning and pulling it off. Natasha - we were a bit sneaky with each other but it worked! Gaven - Dad's gold statue was perfect! Thanks to all those who helped behind the scenes with food and preparation. Jody, my maid of honour and best friend, the cake was beautiful. Thanks to everyone for gifts, cards and, mostly, just for being there to help celebrate. Thank you to our grandsons Jackson and Davis for adding even more love to our home after all these years. Thank you! Scott and Marion Gartshore, Dad and Mom, Poppa and Grandma.

440 THANK YOU

WE WOULD LIKE to thank everyone who helped put on our Jack and Jill this past weekend. We had a great time and we hope everyone enjoyed themselves. We would also like to thank everyone who came that night for supporting us. We would like to give out a special thanks to Corey and Michelle Davis, Kirk and Dayle Smith and the whole wedding party for everything they did for us. Thanks Fiona and Ted.

450 IN MEMORIAM

Guzik William Douglas
Nov. 29, 86-June 16, 2002

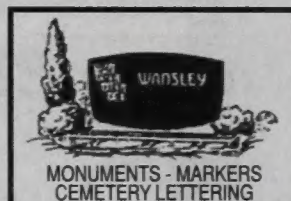

In Memory of our
Darling Dear Bill,
One year ago today heaven was enlightened
and the angels sang,
When God called your name,
Your wonderful face,
Your loving heart,
Your caring manner,
Your wonderful smirk
Your perfect, twinkle in your eye.
The way you light a room as you walk through
You completed our lives!
The heavens are so lucky they have you.
We on earth were so lucky to have had you even for a little while.
Here on earth we miss everything about you.
Our memories are so precious, thank you Bill
But still we want more, with you.
Now we have our tears for you,
And wait our turn to be with you again.
Even though Bill, you are not here with us,
Your death will never stop us from loving you.
We love you beyond all words,
And we promise that we will love you beyond all time.
We feel so fortunate to have you for a son.
Mom, Dad, Mike, Chris, G&G
